to the attack

on job security

TAFE wants you to support a new enterprise agreement that will undermine your job security by allowing part year employment.

With part year (seasonal) employment you can be stood down without pay for a set number of weeks each year. Under TAFE's proposal a part year employee could work as little as 36 weeks a year.

Part year employment is the single biggest threat to your job security. TAFE has refused to put any protections against the abuse of part year employment in their enterprise agreement.

Under TAFE's proposal:

- ✗ all new staff can be employed on part year contracts
- ✗ all temporary staff can be forced onto part year contracts when current contracts expire
- ✗ there is nothing to stop a permanent full year job being restructured and made into a part year position.
