University of New England enterprise bargaining update

Today was the last EB meeting of 2017 and as much as we would have liked to end the year on a high note with in principle agreement on a clause, it wasn't to be – despite our best efforts. However, progress was made on the PPDR clause and we may be close to in principle agreement on the domestic violence leave clause, which is just sticking on one or two specific points.

We hope you and all you loved ones have a fantastic holiday season. Enjoy your hard-fought, union-won leave entitlements this festive season.

We are back at the table on 13 February 2018 to continue our work for you.
